

Stepping Stones to Sustainability

with guest speaker Michael Ableman

Monday, October 20, 7 – 9:30 PM
 Segal Graduate School of Business 500 Granville St, Vancouver, BC

Sustainable Agriculture
& Food Production

Therapeutic Agriculture,
Gardening, Horticulture

Sustainability Academy

Fish & Wildlife

Stewardship & Recreation

Metro Vancouver invites you to a special presentation by Michael Ableman, at the Segal Graduate School of Business, 500 Granville Street on October 20, 2008 at 7 p.m.

Farmer, author, photographer, and world traveler Michael Ableman will share, using slides, his perspective on sustainable agriculture at home and around the globe. A long time advocate of sustainable and regional agriculture, Michael is the author of several articles and books including Fields of Plenty, On Good Land, and From the Good Earth. An inspiring and sought-after public speaker, Michael has lectured extensively across North America. His stories and photographs weave a fascinating story about the inter-connections between agriculture, the community and the natural environment.

There will be an opportunity to ask questions, followed by a panel discussion with local experts who will discuss the challenges of integrating sustainable agriculture into rural and urban landscapes.

To find out more visit www.metrovancouver.org
 Search: 'stepping stones'

metro vancouver