Sani-dump Bylaw

Metro Vancouver's goal is to protect the wastewater system, human health and the environment. All facilities and users that are connected to the region's sewer systems must do their part to help achieve this important goal.

Metro Vancouver's Sani-dump Bylaw No. 346 promotes the safe operations of sani-dump facilities in the region. A sani-dump is any facility that is used or may be used for the discharge of recreational vehicle (RV) waste to a sewer.

The bylaw allows Metro Vancouver staff to help sani-dump operators prevent hazardous or harmful materials from being discharged into their facilities.

All facilities are required to promptly report to Metro Vancouver, all suspected or observed discharges to a sani-dump other than recreational vehicle (RV) waste.

Metro Vancouver may inspect sani-dump facilities and issue warnings or fines if improper use is identified.

Questions about bylaw requirements can be sent to Metro Vancouver (see contact information below).
