

BIO – Theresa Duynstee

Theresa is a Senior Planner with the Metro Vancouver Regional District where she has specialized in agricultural land use over the past fourteen years. Her work involves policy research and development, data analysis, convening stakeholders, and collaborating with other levels of government. Theresa is a Professional Agrologist with experience in food systems, organic matter recycling, land stewardship and reclamation. Her education included a B.Sc. (Agri) in Soil Science from the University of British Columbia, a Baccalaureate Diploma in Communications from Simon Fraser University and a Masters in Environment and Management from Royal Roads University.